The report of the nominating committee was read and a ballot was cast for the following officers for the ensuing year: vice-president, Joan Jeffries; secretary, Marcia Denison; treasurer, Kimball Ames; Trustees—Eva Twitchell, Agnes Thurston, Ruth Mason, Jane Smith Mills. A motion was made and carried to retain Mr. Laws as president until a successor is named.

A discussion was held concerning the Mollycodd Day Bazaar which is scheduled for August 2. Mr. Laws stated that interest is generating in various organizations as to the type of booth they wish to sponsor. Each organization will be requested to send a representative to a meeting to work out the details.

Velma Spencer spoke on the need for a new sponsor for the Child Health Conferences formerly sponsored by the Eleanor Gordon Guild. The Council voted to sponsor these conferences. Plans are now underway for programs in April, May, and June to give pre-school children in the area, who are not under the care of a physician, an opportunity to have a physical examination and to begin a program of immunization. Further details of these conferences will be announced at future dates.

She spoke very favorably of the work being done in both areas.

Mr. Sawicki explained the program of the Oxford County Mental Health Association which includes clinics at the Rumford and Norway hospitals. A question and answer period followed their presentation.

The Women of the West Parish Congregational Church are reminded of the all-day work meeting on Wednesday, March 19, to clean the church. Please come for the time you can spare us, beginning at 10 a. m.

BETHEL VOTERS FAVOR FLUORIDATION —OPPOSE ZONING AT MONDAY MEETING

—Raise $40,000 for Winter Roads

Bethel voters gave permission to the Bethel Water District to add fluoride to the municipal water supply by a 139 to 93 margin at the annual meeting Monday evening in Odeon Hall attended by a near-capacity audience. The adjourned session defeated by a 169 to 99 count an effort to reinstate the so-called "1958 zoning ordinance". By an unrecorded show of hands votes the article to abolish the Planning Board was passed over, as was an article to accept a Building Code by a 132 to 70 margin.

Among those speaking on the fluoridation issue were Mrs. David Thompson, Mrs. Joan Wiese, Sam McCoy, Harold Rich, Tim Carter, and Dr. John Trinward. Dan Manson, Water District Trustee, stated that he had estimates that the cost of fluoridating the local water supply would be about four cents a day.

The greatest amount of oratory was concentrated on the zoning article with Moderator Dale Thurston taking leave of the rostrum to join in the discussion. Among others speaking on the question were Blaine Moores, R. Glenn Murphy, Mrs. Joan Wiese, Ted Chadbourne, Michael O'Donnell and Mrs. Patricia Hudson. Ronald Kendall was pressed into service as moderator protem to secure a vote on the article.

After the zoning vote was announced many of the citizens started to leave the hall and the building code vote of 132 to 70 to pass over appeared to be a foregone conclusion.

Action earlier in the warrant had increased the Winter Roads account to $40,000, an increase of $17,500 over the recommendation of the Budget Committee. Town Manager Elwyn Dickey explained that a considerable amount of snow had arrived since the Committee made its recommendation and that more than the $22,500 suggested had already been expended.

The amount recommended for the Dump, $1,250, was approved by the voters, an increase of $500 over 1958. Mr. Dickey stated that a more judicious use of the dump would be likely to reduce the amount needed for its maintenance.

The regular amount of $125 was approved for the Public Health Nurse. It was felt at the time of the Budget Committee meetings that the amount of $365 recommended for the Androscoggin Home Health Service, and approved at the Monday meeting, would make the Health Nurse appropriation unnecessary. Later events made it appear that approval of both amounts might be a wiser decision. Services offered by the Androscoggin Home Health Services include a visiting nurse program to assist in the care of persons who might otherwise require hospitalization or nursing home care.

Local funds to finance the distribution of Surplus Commodities in the amount of $600 were approved. Cost of this program has been estimated at 50 cents per beneficiary per month.

Three articles were approved by the town pertaining to the future municipal sewerage treatment plant. These will permit the Selectmen to apply to federal, state or other agencies for grants-in-aid; to issue notes

The town voted to accept from S. A. D. #44 the ownership of the East Bethel School House, and authorized the Selectmen to dispose of buildings and any land they deem expedient at the Town Farm.

An amount of $5,000 was raised to subsidize local ambulance service. Mr. Dickey informed the meeting that Eldon Greenleaf had notified the Town Office that he can provide the service only until Dec. 31 of this year. Further plans must be made for after that date.

The article requesting $6,000 to be added to the account for revaluation was passed over 112 to 79. The assessors were granted authorization to increase land values by a uniform percentage for tax purposes.

Approved, 147 to 87, was the article to pay Stanley Moore $250 as reimbursement for expenses incurred in defending himself in a law suit brought by the town a year ago. The case involved the zoning code repealed on May 14.

Holding a brief session following the annual meeting, the Selectmen named J. Jay Willard to serve as chairman for the next year. Other members of the board are Howard Gunther, James Hutchins, John Brown and Avery Angevine. Elwyn Dickey was rehired by the board to serve as town manager until the next annual meeting.

NEXT TUESDAY

A meeting of the Bethel P. T. A. will be held on Monday, March 17, at Crescent Park School at 7:30 p. m. Included on the program will be a presentation on Narcotics by Detective Gene Bickford of the Maine State Police.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

Last Monday night's town meeting appropriated a total of $161,133, of which $40,000 is to be taken from surplus, leaving $121,133 to be raised by taxation. In addition to this amount the School District's assessment will be $243,372.

The proposed change in the school subsidy payments could help a great deal to relieve the burden of school costs to the towns. If the Legislature enacts the change as an emergency measure it could become effective in time to assist us this year.

There is an increase in valuation expected this year as a result of new buildings being built and unfinished structures completed since last year.

The tax rate based on 1968 valuation and estimated county tax would be $44 per thousand. We would like to think we can reduce this $1 on increased valuation and more with a change in the school subsidy schedule.

Now with some money in the till the "Boosters" have set their sights on some type of photographic equipment to aid the coaching staff in improving team and individual performance in the various sports at the high school.

Future events are in the making. Please attend these functions and support the "Boosters".

WORKING MOTHERS MAY DEDUCT PORTION OF CHILD CARE COST

Working mothers may take a tax deduction for a portion of the expense of caring for their children, according to Whitney L. Wheeler, District Director of Internal Revenue for Maine.

Child care costs may qualify for a deduction if they permit the taxpayer to be gainfully employed or to actively seek gainful employment. Children under 13 years of age are covered by this provision as well as someone who is physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself regardless of age.

Fathers are also eligible to deduct child care costs, Mr. Wheeler said, if they are widowed, divorced, or legally separated. The deduction may also be taken by a man whose wife is incapacitated or institutionalized. Mr. Wheeler said the child care deduction is limited to what is actually spent, and may not exceed $600 if there is one dependent. Up to $900 may be deducted if two or more dependents are involved.

Requirements which must be met to claim this deduction are: Married women must file a joint return with their husbands and reduce the deduction by the amount that the combined adjusted gross income exceeds $6,000. (This rule does not apply, however, if the husband is incapable of self-support due to mental or physical cause.)

2. Deductions are not allowed for the care of anyone whom the taxpayer is not entitled to claim as a dependent.

3. If the person receiving the payments performs other duties, only the part paid for the child care may be deducted.

You can lose it.
You can burn it.
You can tear it up.

We replace it.

Now, we don't suggest that you start taking U. S. Savings Bonds to parties to light your cigarettes. But if your Savings Bond is ever lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed, all you have to do to have it replaced are these two things:

1. Notify the Bureau of Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois 60605. Send in the serial number, if you have it, along with information about where and when you bought it. And send whatever is left of your damaged Bond.

2. Then complete and return Form PD 1048 which the Treasury will be sending you.

We'll replace your Bond with a duplicate. Or with full payment, if you like. Because Savings Bonds are an investment in your country. And there's no safer investment than that.

Another thing. Savings Bonds are easy to buy, too. Just go to your bank. Or join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

"Will God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house that I have builded?" This verse from I Kings is part of a Bible Lesson Sermon titled "Substance" to be read this Sunday in all Christian Science churches.

One of the selections to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following: "The everlasting I AM is not bounded nor compressed within the narrow limits of physical humanity, nor can He be understood aright through mortal concepts. The precise form of God must be of small importance in comparison with the sublime question: What is Infinite Mind or divine Love?"

Services at First Church of Christ Scientist, Main and Tenth Sts., Berlin, N. H., begin at 11 a. m. All are welcome.

Letters to the Editor

The Citizen welcomes "Letters to the Editor" dealing with community affairs and topics that will stimulate thought and discussion. Readers having like or divergent views are invited to contribute. Opinions expressed in the "Letters" column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of this publication. Letters containing material the Editor considers libelous will be omitted in their entirety.

March 12, 1969
Never before have I capitulated to a fleeting desire to write a "Letter to the Editor." Certainly in a small town of conservative—even provincial—bent there is no quicker way of establishing one's self as a "character," trouble-maker, "wind bag" or just plain "nut." Furthermore, I realize that anything written immediately after the emotional carnival of Town Meeting will be construed by many as the lament of a "sore loser" or the ill-concealed exuberance of a member of the winning bloc. However, neither of these positions are what motivated me to voice this personal observation.

What disturbed me deeply was failure of appointive and elective officials to provide efficient, firm, and impartial direction of our Town Meeting. The moderator commendably made sure that the warrant was clearly heard by all present. However, word-for-word repetition of each article two (and sometimes three) times, rather than subsequently referring to it by its number once it had been read seemed an unnecessary waste of time in a meeting faced with considering some sixty odd articles. This petty complaint could be explained away, perhaps, by lack of experience, but not so the disregard for the moral—if not legal—necessity of maintaining some semblance of restrained, factual neutrality on a moderator's platform.

Occasional interjections of non-partisan humor would, I'm sure, offend no one, but laconic commentary by a moderator indicating his agreement or disagreement with an article, either before or after the vote, on that article is uncalled for. Complete abandonment of the moderator's duties in order to engage in floor debate, while it may have been legal, reflected a lack of discipline, of ego and lack of respect for the office which had been assumed. Emotional speeches appealing to love of God, Country, Motherhood, etc., which in no way relate to the subject under discussion certainly are not required from a moderator. If my fellow townsman felt so strongly about the topics to be discussed at this town meeting, he should have had the good taste to have refused the moderator's post and remained on the floor as a member of the public voting at large.

And next year let's hope our moderator exhibits maturity that corresponds with his years.

Dear Editor:

In Gilead man bites dog! Not really. But Gilead is a town of sometimes small surprises. The latest of these arcane manifests reported by the Town, concerns its aging truck, a veteran of seventeen cold winters.

Seven years ago the Truck took sick. Her hospitalization cost twelve ($1200.00) hundred dollars. But she recovered; did her work and thrifly consumed three hundred fifty ($350.00) dollars worth of gasoline. This year, it is reported, she was ill again. And again it took twelve hundred ($1,200.00) dollars to cure her. But this time her throat was almost cured as well. She drank only eighty-two ($82.00) dollars worth of her favorite beverage. Faithfully she bucked the drifts of the worst winter in history. Once in a while she stood aside and tearfully watched behemoths perform her chores. Though she was willing, her masters threw aside her pleas to do her job.

Any truck is full of surprises. Seldom are they such pleasant ones. The Gilead truck has shattered all records and makes a shambles of the theory of inflation pronounced by reputable economists. She lowers the costs. Keep her on the Ways. And keep the others off. It would be a shame for Gilead voters to kill this goose that lays such golden eggs.

March 8, 1969

To the Editor of The Bethel Citizen:
Recent letters that have appeared in your columns reveal a pronounced trend towards disaffection with the "Establishment." Perhaps the climax was reached in your issue of March 6, 1969 in which one of your correspondents wrote: "I've had to become a criminal before the law to get protection . . . My crime was deliberate. I have neither filed nor paid any income tax for the past three years for my self or my store. I'm waiting for the IRS. with open arms . . . I do not know the lady who wrote the letter but I do know that she is no "criminal" to use her own designation. She has sought solution to a problem which she describes at length in her letter to you. Having failed to obtain satisfaction, she has seen fit to exhibit her displeasure by an apparent violation of Federal tax laws if indeed she is within the province of these laws! The gesture may be self-defeating. We can only hope that she will emerge from it all satisfactorily and unscathed.

Other letters have called in question the motives of reputable and civic minded citizens of the community. Some of these citizens I know personally, and their unselfish efforts on behalf of the community in both valuable time and money deserve more generous recognition. For example the oblique attack on Dr. Hudson in your March 6th issue is truly distressing. Both he and his wife have been powerful forces in the life of the Bethel community. They have given unstintingly of their time and efforts to causes that vitally effect Bethel. The letter which he wrote you on February 27, 1969 has much merit.

The entire controversy of zoning has revealed a disturbing and marked divergence in Bethel of what has euphemistically gained the misnomer of the "Haves" and "Have Nots" throughout our nation. I use the term "misnomer" advisedly, because it is impossible to base community values on economic achievement. What is good for the more affluent in any community is frequently even better for the less affluent. In short it is utterly ridiculous to assert that if you are poor zoning is bad for you. I do not know whether "A Resident of Mechanic Street" whose letter appears in the March 6th issue of the Citizen, is a so called "have" or "have not." It isn't relevant here, but he makes his point well. If the Citizens of Bethel continue to permit the building of wooden structures adjacent to each other, they'll surely rue the day.

Our young people are expressing themselves drastically today in our universities and cities. The desire to overthrow is rampant. Unfortunately however these dissenters and revolutionaries have no valid plans for substituting for the established institutions which they so avidly seek to destroy. I personally can see little if any difference between their attitude and the attitude of those of their elders who assert unlimited and absolute rights to the use of their real property without giving any heed to the awful price that their intransigence may eventually impose on the community. The immediate gain is a few paltry dollars by way of reduction in property taxes. It would seem that now is the time for elements in the Bethel Community to unite for the orderly development of the town on well established and successfully applied principles of town planning. Isn't there enough civic pride in the Town of Bethel to close the rift which from the distance of 400 miles at least seems to be ever widening?

Sincerely yours,
Mark Cymrot

Editor Sir,

"Perhaps you will be good enough to open your column for the following:"

It was gratifying to read in your publication the civic-spirited letters of the candidates for the School Board.

I was particularly interested in the views of Mr. Albert J. Fiske who touched upon a matter of concern to education everywhere, to wit "a school for all our students, not just for a favored few."

Elucidation of this controversial subject must produce substantive achievement in new understanding and in lessened tensions.

When compulsory public education was first introduced in Germany, over a hundred years ago, it meant just one thing: a school for everybody!

The motive for this law was not at all a democratic one. Far from it! The mercenary armies had been disbanded. The small warring principalities were unified into one Germany under a strong ruler. Native soldiers had to be sent to distant frontiers of the new empire. Communication by word of mouth became impossible. Written instructions would have to be sent to all corners of the domain. And an illiterate soldier would be a useless soldier!

Subsequently the idea evolved itself that the desirable type of obedient, properly conditioned little citizen could best be molded in the public school.

So much for the motives! The implementation, however, could not be more democratic. Without dis-function, every child had to go to the school assigned to him in his own residential district. The prince and the pauper might be sitting on one bench next to each other!

This democratic equality, however, ceased at the classroom door. If the pauper was smarter than the prince, the teacher moved him one up in the hierarchy of seats. This was the distinction (instead of our "ranks"). The superiority of mentality or of ability!

Although we are aware of modern psychology, aware of the fact that teaching and learning are a two-way process and that lack of responsiveness in the student may depend on method and approach of the teacher, this matter is often confused by school principals. With the best of intentions they often disregard the basic need of the student, which is: the feeling that he has the ability to cope with requirements—by lumping them all together indiscriminately.

No profound philosophy is necessary to understand that it would be cruel to tie a vigorous child to one stricken by polio and to expect the former to adjust to the tempo and rhythm of the latter!

No one would infer from this that the weaker or slower child is to be neglected. The polio-stricken child must be given extra-ordinary care and love and tenderness and consideration and must be removed from the others who might inadvertently hurt him!

Moreover, segregation and classification of children by ability may not necessarily mean that some are inferior mentally. Their abilities may differ in different areas. A brilliant mathematician may be slow in language, and vice versa.

Attempts at solving this problem are being made now in schools in different parts of the world. In England it is called "streaming". In the better schools in this country small "accelerated" classes are being created.

Telstar belongs to the better schools and perhaps it will make the start in distinguishing between individual differences. It has an intelligent, dedicated team of teachers. In addition to the requirements of certification, a good teacher must have unfathomable reserves of good will which cannot be replaced by any other strength. It seems to me the teachers of Telstar possess this quality in a large measure and they would cooperate generously.

It might be argued then that the ideal situation would be a teacher-student ratio of 1:1? Like the little princes? Why not? This is democracy. Democracy is not mobocracy with the triumph of utility over dignity and refinement. Democracy means dignity and refinement for all!

What About Zoning?

A correction and comment.
On page four in the Citizen of March 6, 1969, under the above heading, several words were left out of paragraph five. This was due to an error made by the writer.

At the end of paragraph five the last sentence read . . . "Also additional heat is required in each house." This sentence was intended to refer, not to heat, but to electricity required for lighting due to the close proximity of two houses.

No mention was made in the letter of the property devaluation which result inevitably where dwellings are placed too closely together.

A safe return on the investment will never be as easily obtained when buildings are poorly located, as it would be if the buildings were properly located in conformity with zoning ordinances made for the benefit and protection of all.

A Resident of Mechanic Street

To whom it may concern:

It is fifty years too late but I know what caused two of the three waves of the 1918 Epidemic of Asian Flu or Influenza.

If it hadn't been named wrong in the first place it might have proven less fatal to so many people. It was Asian Cholera and if you will follow its path along the Canadian Pacific Railway from Vancouver to Halifax and through Maine from Houlton to Houlton to ships to France or Spain you will have your own answer. These were the Cooley Trains (Chinese laborers who were chained together to dig trenches during World War I). These trains made open sewers of the tracks, even as they prevented any Coolees escaping from the trains by the presence of Royal Mounted Police on every car. Every Chinaman had to be bonded by the Canadian Government against escape within the State of Maine.

The first wave was when the Chinese workers were transported to Europe. Another was when they returned to be shipped back to China by boat from Vancouver. What hap-

CRITICISM

It Goes with the Territory

Being found fault with is one of the hazards of dealing with the public, be it as a municipal official, a member of a profession offering service, a teacher or administrator in a school system, a merchant operating a store, or the editor of a small-town newspaper.

For any one of the segments of a community serving the public to assume an aura of infallibility, of trying to be all things to all people, is to seek assumption of a mantle of respectability and honor impossible to maintain.

For one portion of society to take umbrage at a statement of an isolated phrase, out of context, that is being used to illustrate a point would hardly seem politic. As the farmer answered when a friend asked him why he was hitting his mule with a stick of wood, "Well, first I have to get his attention."

Not being blessed with powers of clairvoyance or being permitted the luxury of hindsight those serving the public frequently make decisions that are not unanimously approved of.

The American statesman of the 19th century, Henry Clay, said "I'd rather be right, than be president." History says that he was never president, and it probably is safe to say that he was not always right either.

opened in Europe is documented history. Maybe there were two shipping dates going in one direction to account for the third wave.

I know the above to be true as I was a girl nine years old at Houlton where my Father was a customs officer at that time. I had to step over the offal on the ties. We all had the Flu and the seven year itch.

Harvester trains also used to travel this same highway and contributed their filth every Fall. Remember the cold air blow up when you sat on the train toilet and the road bed beneath when you flushed the toilet with a minimum of water.

This information may help some civic minded medical people to realize how small this world is and Asian Cholera is still with us in muted form mostly and under the alias of Flu or Influenza.

What I want to know is how these other Flu epidemics spread unless the Doctors are trying to keep us inoculated by their Flu shots and thus make us sick to keep us well. For every disease there is a cure. Let's have our scientists of the world find that cure.

You have to know who your enemy is before you can fight him or prepare to fight.

This is another case of natural germ warfare. Maybe its beginning was in ignorance or stupidity. I do not know. A check of the trains records will prove my story.

Thelma Hazling
(received March 6, 1969, for publication March 13, 1969)

I requested my Doctor for information as to where I could be examined for Trypanosomiasis and Chelera. This is his answer to my request, postmarked March 6, '69, received March 7, 1969.

Dear Thelma:

The reply to your questions by the Maine Medical Center laboratory is as follows:

(1) They lack experience in this matter because these illnesses don't exist in this part of the world.

(2) Test for Trypanosomiasis requires clotted blood which your local doctor could take and send direct to the State Laboratory in Augusta, Maine. If this blood is sent to Maine Medical Center, the latter will have to send it to the State Laboratory. In turn, the State Laboratory will forward the blood to the Communicable Disease Center, in Atlanta, Georgia (the complete address is enclosed). The Maine Medical Center informed me that it is very unlikely that this center in Georgia will accept this request. In other words, they will refuse to run the tests. The reason for this is there are no medical grounds for our request, as I explained to you in my office.

(3) Our experience is lacking in testing for Chelera. You could ask the advice of the State Laboratory in Augusta, Maine.

Wishing you good luck.

Cholera is pandemic, universal everywhere (not endemic as the Medical Profession would have you believe). But don't panic. It's been around a long time and prone or pandemicism would only cause an epidemic world wide.

LEEDS FIRM CONVERTS JUNKED CARS INTO MARKETABLE STEEL

Over a decade ago the bottom dropped out of the scrap market for junked automobiles.

The derelicts piled up, turning into eyesores.

The State of Maine, working with towns and cities, attempted to force removal of the hulks from view. Some communities resorted to burying junked cars. The possibility of dumping them in the Atlantic was explored.

In 1967, a new Massachusetts market developed and thousands of junked cars were exported. But the flow did not match the discard rate of approximately 30,000 cars a year.

In an effort to crack the transportation problem and eat into the accumulation, state agencies and businessmen sought a shredder operation for Maine. Early in 1968, the Maine Central Railroad announced that it had leased a new firm, National Metal Converters, Inc., a Leeds site for a shredder which will transform 150 junked cars into marketable steel scrap daily. National Metal Converters' President Harry Zaitlin of Saco said the shredder will go into operation this summer.

If successful, the shredder will draw on a back log of an estimated quarter of a million junked cars.

"The State Department of Economic Development will figure in establishing plants of greater financial impact and industries which will employ more persons, but none will contribute more to the Maine environment," Richard H. Woodbury, chairman of the Keep Maine Scenic Committee, said. He praised the cooperative effort of the Maine Central and the Economic Development Department staff in aggressively seeking the industry. The Committee, which has urged a private business solution to the problem which has required subsidies in other states, said that State Police and State Highway Commission specialists also had figured in the team work which finally saw the announcement of the plant.

Zaitlin said the new plant will require a "substantial" investment. It will consist of several buildings, scales for weighing incoming truckloads of junk cars, a stockpile area, a railroad spur and the big shredding machine itself. Located in a depleted gravel pit, the operation will be invisible to motorists passing on nearby Route 202, will be virtual ly smokeless, and not contribute to pollution of local streams.

He said the big shredder will process one automobile body a minute. It will take whole cars at one end and deliver two-to-three-inch pieces of clean steel at the other, loading directly into railroad cars. The residue may be used as excellent land fill, he said.

Zaitlin said the new plant is expected to attract junk cars, discarded appliances and other metals from over the entire state.

Maine Central's marketing department is working to set up rail movements of junked automobiles from various Maine points to the new plant. Maine Central has been handling carloads of such freight for months from Bangor and Lewiston to the Massachusetts plants.

As Maine communities struggle with the problem of cleaning up this type of blight, the new Leeds' plant offers hope that the final disposal of such cars is now possible in a new market.

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Cathie Mayne, Corres.

On the bridge I paused for a time to face the west toward Long Mountain, Overset and Patch. There was no change of light or shift of shadows, but I heard the gurgle of water beneath the bridge.

Most color was gone from this small world, leaving only the blue of the sky, the green of the pine and fir lines, and the slate blue of the hills. The structure upon which our early pioneers built was never more apparent. Here and there a wide flung maple or a towering elm stood out.

Greenwood, formerly known as Number 4 Township was made up of three separate grants. The first with in the present boundary of Greenwood was made to James Mosher, John Haskell and John Akers by act of General Court of Massachusetts, passed June 24, 1795 consisting of 1000 acres. Some suggest that the name, Greenwood, describes its main product as well as its forest clad hills.

Somewhere in back of Patch the first settlement was begun by William Yates, a Methodist preacher and a farmer.

As I stood there I pictured the log cabin far up on that mountain, standing alone in the clearing while somewhere near at hand, appeared a jagged cliff, helping to break the cold north wind as it towered gray white in the sunshine. From the cabin possibly a foot path led to the cool depths of the forest and to the far reaching valley. Other footpaths disappeared into the forest and no other houses in sight.

Then, so history tells us came Thomas Furlong and Timothy Patch, the latter from whom the mountain received its name, was probably the next to make a clearing and bring his family to the place.

Simoon Sanborn built the first mill at what became known as Greenwood City, about 1805. His mills became the early center of business and social life. Later in history all were destroyed by fire.

There are many other names connected with the early settlements. These men who spent their strength and years taming a harsh and beautiful land to their service.

One name, Charles Young, linked with settlement on Young Hill leads me to wonder if he was a relative of Nath'l Young. I found in Young Hill's cemetery this fall a gray colored stone with this inscription: Caloe, wife of Nath'l Young, died 1877, age 92 years, 7 months; children 15; G. Children 85, G G children 173, G G G children 2.

These pioneers were a tough and independent breed and self sufficient. If they had been otherwise, they never would have chosen this bitter, harsh climate. But they did and nobody made them stay. They liked it. They must have been hardy before they came with the soft ones weeded out while the others remained to build and grow. They never lost time by whining either, for if disaster came they picked up the pieces and started anew.

They tended their land religiously. The sun lay softly upon it. There were the liveliest sounds of music from the forests and air moving sweetly all day long. These hills, big, towering and beautiful, looked down on these people even as they spread their settlements into the deep fertile bottom lands.

Standing here with the eerie water music beneath my feet I thought again of these pioneers on their new land with its greatness and vigor. No doubt they looked at it partly in fear and partly in mounting elation, and wondered if it was a badge of freedom or a treadmill. Which ever it proved to be, at least the mountains were there. The deep forests and the sun gilding the top of the western hills said, "Stretch forth your hand and take me. Courage and hard work, sir."

The voice of the River over the dam brought me up to 1949 when the Mount Abram Fish and Game Association and men at the "City"

From Our Back Issues

10 YEARS AGO

Citizens of South Paris voted for a town manager form of government to go into effect in 1960. Edmund C. Smith, owner-operator of Wydeacre Farm, Bethel, was elected to the Agricultural Advisory Council of the University of Maine. Miss Lee Ann Grover, a senior at Gould Academy, was crowned carnival queen.

A depth of five feet of snow was reported at Boscawen Camp, Wilson's Mills.

20 YEARS AGO

Larry's Army and Navy Surplus Store moved to Ridgelyville. It had been located in a small store next to the Red and White, corner Main and Church Streets. Five hundred ten ballots were cast at the Bethel town meeting for the election of officers.

30 YEARS AGO

Officers of the Bethel Band were President, Arthur Dudley; Vice President, Jesse Doyen; Secretary and Treasurer, Ralph Young.

A snowfall of about 30 inches reported to be the worst late winter storm in more than 70 years hampered traffic. Many side roads were impassable for a time.

Deaths: Frank J. Russell, Mrs. Johanna Pulkkinen, Mrs. Roscoe Swan.

SENIOR CITIZENS MEET AT GARLAND CHAPEL

Twenty's full of confidence. Thirty's not so sure. Forty views the coming years. Somewhat insecure. Fifty's settled in routine. Sixty looks for rest. Seventy knows the answers well. He has stood the test.

With this cute verse read by Gladys Cross the Senior Citizens opened a pleasant program at Garland Chapel on Tuesday.

Forty-five members and guests were present. The president, Mrs. Walter Bond, presided. Members unable to be present due to illness were Parker Russell at Maine Medical Center, Portland, Mrs. William Young at Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, and Mrs. Mary Briggs, confined at her home.

A turkey banquet was served at noon by members of the Women's Fellowship, Circle 2, with Mrs. Kimball Ames chairman, assisted by a group of charming women.

Seated at the honor table were the Senior officers, Rev. Carl Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hall, and one March birthday person, Mrs. Beatrice Conover. Seats were reserved at this table for Cedric and Jennie Juddkins, Upton, who were unable to be present. The birthday cake was provided by Mrs. Madge Vogt.

Sarah Stevens invited the Seniors to a musical to be given by Mrs. Virginia Walker and Mrs. Nesta Littlefield at the regular meeting of the Methodist W. S. C. S. on March 20.

Mrs. Dexter Stowell gave a brief summary of the various important services performed by the State Homemakers Aide and made an appeal for funds as the Governor's budget makes no recommendations for this worthy work.

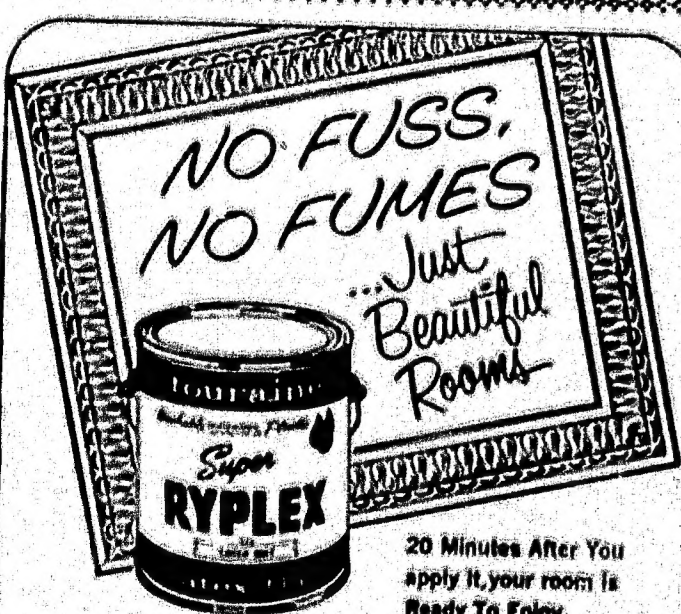

A selection of St. Patrick's Day songs was enjoyed by all led by Mrs. Vogt and Mr. Glines. The unaccompanied vocal solo, "Mother Machree" by Mrs. Vogt, was heartwarming.

Beautiful colored views of apple blossoms and summer gardens and fall foliage in Oxford County, photographed and shown by Ralph Hall gave us happy memories and courage. And he had some pictures of mountain-high, incredible and awesome snowbanks, too.

MAINE SEEN FACING THREAT OF FLOODS

Maine Governor Kenneth Curtis said Monday that recent heavy snowstorms pose a spring flood threat to Maine and he's sending a team of officials to Boston for some emergency planning.

The Maine officials were scheduled to meet Wednesday with representatives of the Federal Office of Emergency Preparedness and delegations from the rest of New England and New York State.

One of the items to be discussed was a report of the Army Corps of Engineers on New England's flood control potential, the governor's office said.

"WORD OF LIFE" RALLY AT TELSTAR AUDITORIUM ON FRIDAY, MARCH 21

In 1940, the vision of one man started to become a world-wide reality as Word of Life Fellowship, Inc., was formed by Jack Wyrzten, a Christian business man turned evangelist. Purpose of the new organization was to attract and interest young people in moral and spiritual values as set forth in the Bible.

Mr. Wyrzten will be conducting a Word of Life Rally at Telstar auditorium, Friday, March 21 at 7:30 p. m. With him will be Ray Hart, tenor soloist. The public is cordially invited.

Under this non-profit, inter-denominational ministry, more than 70 missionaries around the world receive support, Bible Clubs for teenagers are set up and supervised, radio broadcasts and telecasts are taped for weekly programs aired over the networks in the United States, Canada and other parts of the world, and "Word of Life" teams reach into every part of North America.

Youth rallies are held in high schools, churches, colleges and at places like West Point, the Air Force Academy, in Philadelphia's Convention Hall, Yankee Stadium, Madison Square Garden and Boston Garden.

In June 1965, at the New York World's Fair, 15,000 people gathered in the Singer Bowl for the 25th Anniversary Rally of Word of Life. This was one of the largest crowds to attend any single event of the Fair.

Wyrzten and members of his Board consider the growth of Word of Life to be miraculous, particularly the huge, but personal camping program in the Adirondack Mountains at Schroon Lake, New York. A 90-acre island for teenagers is referred to as "A Wee Bit of Heaven." The Word of Life Inn for adults is known as the "Waldorf Astoria of Bible Conferences," while the 130-acre Western style Ranch, also at Schroon Lake, caters to those under 14 years of age in the summer... and extends its effectiveness by serving as a Winter Snow Camp for all ages in the winter.

Campers come to Schroon Lake by the busload from as far away as California. There were 18,000 registrations recorded in 1968. This camping ministry has spread to Brazil and Germany, and future plans included similar camps in every continent.

Although now 55 years of age, and refusing ordination and honorary doctorates, Jack Wyrzten perhaps is the best known leader among youth in the world. Young people say they see him perennially young and exemplifying the qualities of life they want for themselves—secretly or otherwise.
